

Group performance January-March 2021

Net sales

Net sales for the period amounted to SEK 100.6 (118.4) million, a decline of 15.0 percent. After adjustment for USD and EUR currency effects, the decline was 6.2 percent. During the quarter, we have seen a positive trend and increased orders for instruments. However, consumables are lagging behind as a large proportion of our installed base is in Asia, which continues to be seriously affected by restrictions and lockdowns. This has resulted in a reduced number of doctor visits and therefore lower test volumes. The number of instruments sold increased by 2 percent compared with the same period the previous year, but sales of instruments fell by 5 percent due to the product mix and currency effects.

Significant risks and uncertainties

The Group's operations are subject to risks and uncertainties that may, to a varying extent, affect the Company's ability to achieve defined goals. Boule works continuously on management of existing risks and uncertainties and on the risk inventory that forms the basis for detecting new risks and uncertainties. The systematic and internally coordinated work is aimed at identifying risks, limiting risk exposure and minimizing any impact should a risk materialize. Currently, primary risks and uncertainties have been identified in the following areas; regulatory risks, product portfolio risks, distributor risks, production and quality risks, counterfeit reagents, price pressure, supplier risks, market risks and competition, bribery, and corruption, currency risks, IT security and systems, financing risks and future cash flows, health and safety in the workplace, dependence on key personnel and the effects of Covid-19.

Boule is currently exposed to currency exchange risks. +/- 10 percent of the exchange rate USD/SEK affects the net sales by +/- SEK 20 million and net profit by +/- SEK 4 million. Boule is continuously working on operationally reducing the company's exchange rate exposure.

A more detailed description of risks, risk management and related opportunities can be found in the 2020 Annual Report. The risks are considered unchanged from those described in the Annual Report, other than the update on the effects of Covid-19 presented below.

Covid-19

Like other companies, Boule faces new challenges related to the spread of Covid-19. There has been a slowdown in sales as a result of the closure of many markets, with a significant decline in routine healthcare visits and therefore fewer blood samples taken. The length of time in which key markets are closed will determine the impact on sales of consumables in the period ahead. New sales of instruments have also stopped at times, with healthcare providers concentrating on managing Covid-19 patients. Problems of logistics and distribution to customers have arisen and may continue to arise due to a lack of transport capacity and obstacles related to border closures. The Company has worked through component supply disruptions and sees this as a challenge that has escalated in early 2021. Boule is taking active measures to mitigate the impact by working closely with the Group's subcontractors, planning and booking deliveries well in advance and reducing the spread of infection in factories by arranging for non-production staff to work from home.

Boule has focused on ensuring good liquidity. Some investments have been postponed but long-term strategic investments have continued according to plan.

Future effects on sales are difficult to estimate as there is continuing uncertainty about how quickly the markets will recover in 2021. In the longer term, we see a continuation of stable growth for the decentralized near-patient market that Boule addresses.

Related-party transactions

Other than remuneration of the Board and senior executives, no related-party transactions have taken place during the period.
